

PERSONAL STATEMENT

I'm Josh Tregenza, designer, multi-disciplinary and autodidact. I build things for the web, the real world and the ethereal with people just like you. I produce a podcast discussing film and it's impact on the world.

I have been a designer for 4 years as both an fully employed and freelance entity. I seek to design in a greater moral capacity, trying to better the world through my work. When not working, I enjoy broadening my knowledge, building out side projects and recently have begun doing game development.

Why don't we work together? Go futher down to see why I am the man you need to hire!
